Hello, I never had the pleasure of meeting Patsy Lynn. However I did have the honor of meeting her grieving son, Chris. It was a chance encounter, one that is quite memorable. I happened to be walking toward the Devil's Elbow Bridge. Chris was sitting on the bridge alone. He took one glance at me and said I looked like his mom who had just passed on a few days prior. We spoke for a few minutes, we cried, he took my photo and we hugged. I felt very honored that I was there for Chris at that moment in time. One never knows how or why God places us in certain locations for a specific reason, but I feel like we were supposed to meet that afternoon. I hope I was able to bring a little comfort to Chris who was crushed that he can no longer hug his mom. Chris, if you read this, you may contact me. I never told you my name that day.
May God continue to be a source of comfort to you.
Sincerely,
Yolette Rios,
Hesperia, California

Patsy, was truly the wind beneath Ernie's wings. She was a remarkable lady and friend who will be greatly missed. She always prepared great meal for the JEAD office and we looked forward to them always. She loved her family, pets and Ernie more than anyone could imagine. She loved to fish, with night crawlers, not artificial baits and despite this shortcoming we were friends none the less. Rest in peace Patsy, you made an impact with your presence. Tom and Kandy

I have never been in Ernie's presence when he did not tell me about Patsy, how she was doing, or a funny story about how he was in the dog house again. Love you like a brother Ernie and I know you will show us all how to get through this because that is the kind of man you are.
