“ Ross was a joy to be around. I always cherished his stories about his time in the service, and learned more from him than in any history book. He was a very faithful man, and every time he would recount a memory of hardship he would always give God glory for pulling him through. He was a great man and an amazing friend. He may not have been blood but I always saw him as family. He will be missed dearly and never forgotten.

I'll miss you Ross.
