“ Erick,

I miss you Brother. You were such an inspiration to me and had a great part in resurrecting my passion for music. I cherish the times we spent together, both on stage and off. You were one of the most easy going people I have ever known, despite all the trials life had dealt you. You deserved the world to hear your talent my friend, and the world needs more people like you. Start that band in Heaven, and save a spot for me, because I will long for the day that we create music together once again.

*I love you brother,
Russ*

“ Erick and I were like brothers. We grew up together, from the time we were like 5... I can't narrow down all the great memories we had, down to just one. There are hundreds if not thousands. Anybody who knew Erick, knows how incredible of a person he was, as well as the most talented individual I think I've ever met. Nothing short of a musical genius. I used to go to Mississippi with him, I was with him when he got Sheila, his beagle, he was a groomsman at my wedding, i went to every concert of his that was possible for me to attend. Some of the greatest memories, laughs, moments I've ever had were sitten at his house, just bs'n... He had the best sense of humor you could imagine... He had the ability to bring joy to any person he was around, by simply walking in the room... When we were kids, we'd stay up all night playin games, until we would fall asleep, in which most times I would sleep in a make shift bed in his closet. Then we'd wake up hours later, eat pancakes and bacon that grandma made, and start our day over. I don't have the words to explain how many great times and how much fun we've had the past 20 or so years. It's something I will never be able to describe to someone to give how incredible it was any justice. If you were around to witness any of it, you can somewhat understand.. I am extremely blessed to have grown up with such an awesome person. I'll miss you Erick, I love you man. Till we meet again brother. Rest easy.
